

Cowboys Born Out of Their Time (Tom Dundee)

He's a cowboy
He was raised in Ohio
He got married and moved further west
He showed up on time for a few awful years
Then one night he got drunk and he left

Drove a truck for awhile up in Fargo
But he never got used to the smoke
He once tried to settle and get some ahead
But he's still just as wild, just as broke

CHORUS The range has been settled for years now
 The old wranglers passed on with their kind
 But every now and again
 You run into these men
 These cowboys born out of their time

For some change he'll remember your birth place
'Cause there's hardly a town he ain't been
And you can get up and leave
Anytime that you please
For that's one thing that he understands

(CHORUS)

He lives out his days now in Denver
His best friend is a bottle of wine
You don't need to ask
Anything of his past
It's asleep in the back of his mind

And as the sun rises over the Rockies
It's so strange that he don't even care
And when it burns out and sets down in Kansas
He checks the fences around Larimer Square

(CHORUS)

Every now and again
You run into these men
These cowboys born out of their time
These cowboys born out of their time
